Making your dreams come true is not easy. Sometimes takes effort, money and time. Sometimes a lot of patience. Sometimes there are many obstacles before you achieve your goals. But once you reach the finish line. You feel more than satisfaction.

The story, you are going to read here, is of a man that invested more than 20 years of his life to realize this dream.

Mel Merel is an excellent chess player and now a professional author. He knows that his books are unique and they add a new chapter in the history of chess.

Unique because these books teach chess in a new different way – simply using checks. Moreover, it is 1 book 3 languages (English, Spanish and German).

He started to write these books in year 1987. He ensured that "The FORCED MATE is an overlooked theme" and that was the only reason that kept the flame of endurance alive, in this long journey of fulfillment.

He is not quite sure if he will get rich by selling his books, but he knows that at least he has done something different. Something that many people will never do in their life time.
